Careers and Progression Evening

Save the date! On Thursday 6th March, we'll be hosting our annual Careers and Progression Evening. There will be over 90 employers, universities and apprenticeship providers in the Sports Hall, Theatre and The Buzz ready to talk all things life after Franklin.

There will be multiple talks throughout the evening, from Apprenticeships, Oxbridge and Careers in the Arts to Careers in Sport and Careers in Film, TV & Media!

You'll receive more information about this event and be able to view the brochure very soon.

Alivio & Esperança (Relief & Hope) - student fundraising campaign

Current Franklin student, Matias, has developed a project in his home country of Angola. The project is called Alivio & Esperança (Relief & Hope) and initially involved Matias when he was on home visits, using his own money to buy food and then his mum cooked 86 meals which they handed out to the community.

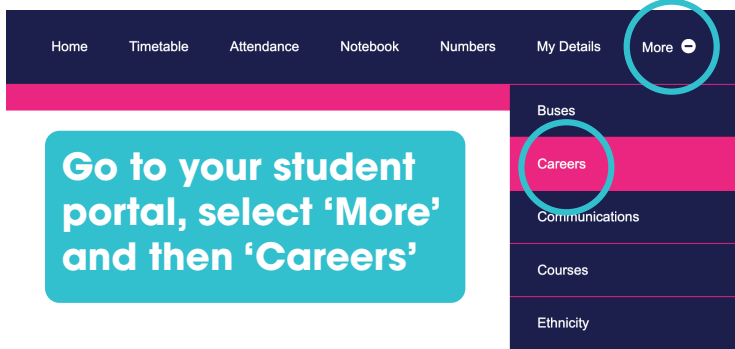

Matias has continued with this project whilst he studies and works in the UK, he is now trying to promote the project so that he can make another donation for Christmas.

"Some of these children have never had a Christmas, I want to give them that family time".

If you are able to donate at all, please click this link for the GoFundMe.

Is the First Amendment the Greatest Right of All?

This lecture discusses a hierarchy of rights. Is the First Amendment the most important of all, given its five foundational rights - no law respecting an establishment of religion; free exercise of religion; freedom of speech and the press; the right peaceably to assemble; the right to petition the Government for a redress of grievances. How might this apply to the UK?

This will take place on Thursday 27th February from 6pm.

A SPOTLIGHT

ON...

Police, Security & Emergencies

It takes more than meets the eye to keep us safe today. The police, emergency and security services protect us at home, on the streets, online and beyond.

What is a career in the police, security and emergency services like?

The emergency services – police, fire, ambulance and coastguard - are on hand 24/7 to help and support us when we are injured, in an accident or the victims of crime. They are publicly funded and spend a large amount of time helping to improve public safety in the community as well as make people aware of threats and avoidable dangers. The work of the police is very wide ranging and includes investigating many different crimes, from theft to assault, fraud and drug trafficking. They also gather evidence for criminal court cases. When criminals are sentenced in court, the prison services take over to keep them in custody and/or manage their probation and help them rehabilitate back into society.

What police, security and emergency jobs can I do?

There are plenty of jobs available in the Police, Security and Emergencies, including police officers, police community support officers, paramedics, firefighters, coastguards, call handlers, security services, probation officers, crime scene investigators and so many more.

Is a career in police, security and emergency for me?

Problem solving skills, communication, teamwork, plus the ability to pay attention to detail and follow instructions are important qualities for lots of jobs in this area. A lot of police work is confidential and, if you work for the security services, you might not even be able to tell your friends what you do for a living, so you'll need to be discreet and able to protect your work! Sometimes the police, security and emergency services can be put in dangerous positions; so you'll need to be calm under pressure. The work can be physically tough too and keeping people safe is a 24-hour operation, so you'll need to be fit and able to work long or flexible hours.

How can I start a career in police, security and emergency services?

You must be 18 to join the police, coastguard or fire service (you can volunteer for the coastguard from 16) and you'll need to check with your local services individually to find out what their requirements are. You might not be asked for specific A-levels or GCSEs, but you will need to pass written and numeric tests and a medical or fitness test to join up. It's essential for coastguards to have experience at sea too.

If your passion is emergency medicine or forensics, biology and chemistry are important at GCSE and A-level and, if required, you should aim for a medical or science degree, e.g. in forensic science.

There are specific degrees relating to policing, including community justice, criminology, criminal justice and police studies. The security services, police forces and the prison service all run graduate schemes to fast-track people for senior or management roles.

UNIVERSITY INFORMATION

University of Hull Chancellor's Scholarship

The University of Hull's Chancellor's Scholarship provides full tuition fee coverage for 10 UK undergraduate students annually. ## Japanese taster in Exploring Japanese Art and Culture with the University of East Anglia

From classical ukiyo-e prints that shaped Western Impressionism to the bold avant-garde movements of the 20th century and the vibrant pop art of today, Japanese artists have continuously redefined artistic expression. You'll explore the works of iconic figures like Yayoi Kusama and Takashi Murakami, whose art challenges ideas of identity, technology, and cultural exchange.

This session offers a fresh perspective on modern and contemporary Japanese art and culture, breaking away from stereotypes and uncovering the dynamic forces shaping Japan today. Whether you're interested in history, creativity, or simply love Japanese art, this talk will open your eyes to Japan's profound impact on the global art scene. Join UEA for an engaging exploration of how tradition meets innovation in Japanese art, followed by a Q&A where you can ask anything about Japan's creative world!

This will take place on Wednesday 5th March from 4:15pm – 5pm. Click here to register.
